

Ethics News – January 7, 2019

The Canadian Centre for Ethics & Corporate Policy (“Ethics Centre”) is pleased to provide you by email, on a regular basis, with timely articles from a variety of sources, on ethical issues currently affecting organizations.

This month's first article is from Forbes.com. It's about ethics in technology -- which not surprisingly ends up overlapping a lot with the ethics of business. The article is called "Experts Reveal Their Tech Ethics Wishes For The New Year", and you can access it here: <https://www.forbes.com/sites/jessicabaron/2018/12/30/experts-reveal-their-tech-ethics-wishes-for-the-new-year/>

Our second item is based on a survey by the Global Ethics & Compliance Initiative. It's called "Stealing, lying, cheating, bullying — people miserable at work do unethical things". You can access it here: <https://thehill.com/opinion/finance/421521-stealing-lying-cheating-bullying-people-miserable-at-work-do-unethical-things>

And as is so often the case we can begin the New Year by looking back, via these two "Top 10" lists:

The first is from the University of Bath, and is called "Top 10 Responsible Business Stories: 2018"

You can access it here: <http://blogs.bath.ac.uk/business-and-society/2018/12/21/top-10-responsible-business-stories-2018/>

The second is from the editors of Business Ethics Highlights: "Top 10 Business Ethics Stories of 2018". You can access it here:
